Time and again the High Court has given instructions to all the judicial officers to give priority to dispose of the old cases and monitor it.
Delay of justice is denial of justice. In everyday language, "justice delayed is justice denied." When justice is not available, or when it is not delivered promptly, the right of the individual to be treated fairly is violated. The delay in delivering justice not only undermines the rule of law, but also erodes public faith in the judicial system. It is, therefore, crucial that efforts are made to ensure that justice is delivered expeditiously. The Right to a speedy trial is a fundamental right enshrined in several constitutions, including the Indian Constitution, with the aim of preventing unnecessary detention and assuring that the principles of justice are not frustrated by delay.

In many countries, the law provides for the setting of a reasonable time limit for the disposal of cases. If this limit is not met, the court may be required to take appropriate action to ensure that justice is delivered within the prescribed time frame. However, despite these provisions, delays in the delivery of justice continue to be a concern in many judicial systems.

Delay can result from a variety of factors, including overburdened courts, inadequate resources, and procedural complexities. It is essential that steps are taken to address these issues and to ensure that justice is delivered in a timely manner. Only then can the principles of justice be upheld and the rights of individuals be respected.

Not it deserves any political will, but an Act of Parliament is required. We should have some guidelines. Otherwise, they have been asking for establishment of Courts, all over the country. We have such courts in Punjab, Maharashtra, but there should be some guidelines. How can a High Court Bench or Supreme Court Bench is established. These guidelines can be formulated by an Act of Parliament.

MR.CHAIRMAN: They will follow the procedure.

SRI T.SRINIVASULU: No, the procedure is at the whims and fancies of the Chief Justice. The relationship between the Chief Minister and the Chief Justice goes a long way. Or the Ruling Party and the Chief Justice. This should not be like that. There should be some clear condition.

MR.CHAIRMAN: You can always recommend.

SRI T.SRINIVASULU: I am asking for an Act of Parliament to put a condition to have a Bench.
MR. CHAIRMAN: Delegation?

SRI R. CHENGAREDDY: We will pursue the matter.

SRI. R. CHENGA REDDY: Already the ball is in the Court of Supreme Court, we will pursue the matter.

SRI B. According to the available information from various sources, a lot of financial irregularities have taken place. Further, funds released by the Food Corporation of India Ltd. (FCI) to the Mills concerned towards Rural Development Cess are not being deposited in time. Therefore, I request the Government kindly to issue necessary White Paper on this issue.

(Interruptions)

Otherwise, shall I say that “all the questions are deemed to have been answered” Accountability and seriousness must be there on the part of the Executive.
Further, I would like to inform that the Rural Development Cess will be paid only to the Government. There is a lengthy procedure according to which concerned records with the Millers have to be verified by the auditors. Towards taxes and the Rural Development Cess is being collected from the Food Corporation of India well within the time.

Andhra Pradesh is clearly the winner in this respect. In the last six months, the social audits conducted jointly by the State Government and NGO’s reveal the recovery of more than one crore by ensuring that the people who are involved in the embezzlement of money paid back the money that they have siphoned of.

We have become the first State to ensure that all the moneys are paid through bank accounts. Not only does it eliminate corruption and ensure transparency but also helps the poorest of the poor, by giving them access to banking facilities.

Corruption in NREGS is a myth. This is an excerpt from that.

A brief follow up visit to Andhra Pradesh enabled us to observed and appreciate various initiatives to prevent corruption in NREGA. For instance, the Government of Andhra Pradesh has taken the bold step of paying all NREGA wages through post offices. This is an example of the “separation of payment agencies from implementing agencies”, as recommended in NREGA guidelines.
This system virtually removes any incentive the implementing agencies have to fudge muster rolls, since the payments are beyond their reach. In addition, Andhra Pradesh has put in place a system of institutionalized social audits, involving routine verification of NREGA records through participatory processes. Judging from our brief visit and from the social audit reports, these safeguards are quite effective. While various forms of petty corruption (such as bribes being taken by postmasters) have emerged from the social audits, there is no evidence of the sort of large scale fraud that plagued public works schemes in Andhra Pradesh just a few years ago.

Sir, this is written by none other than “The Hindu:” Newspaper. 20th feb, 2008
