Due to over enthusiasm of the staff seeds have been sown very profusely and as a matter of fact there are three closely compacted rows of young seedlings the average height of which is 4 inches (observed in September 1951). These seedlings are being thinned out at the expense of bamboo Tamrindus indica and are being given an uniform distance of 2 3 inches.

Five-Year Plan

In an effort to provide more funds for the development of our educational institutions, the government has prepared a five-year plan. This plan aims to increase the enrollment in universities and colleges, improve the quality of education, and enhance the infrastructure of educational institutions.

System

The plan is divided into four sections:

1. Increase in Enrollment
   - A target of 10% increase in enrollment is set for universities and colleges in the first year of the plan. This goal will be achieved by offering more courses and increasing the number of scholarships.

2. Quality Improvement
   - The government will invest in the development of teaching materials and resources to improve the quality of education. This will include the provision of textbooks, lecture notes, and other learning materials.

3. Infrastructure Development
   - The plan includes a significant investment in the development of infrastructure, such as the construction of new buildings and the renovation of existing ones. This will provide a better learning environment for students.

4. Research and Development
   - The government will encourage research and development activities in universities and colleges. This will be achieved by providing research grants and creating a conducive environment for academic research.

Represent

The plan is supported by the government, which has allocated a significant budget for its implementation. The plan will be reviewed annually to assess its progress and make necessary adjustments.

Sir,

I wish to bring to your attention a matter which has been brought to the notice of the Council of the University by a number of students. The matter relates to the non-availability of certain books which are essential for the completion of their studies. The students have been informed by the Librarian that the books are not in stock and that they will have to be obtained from other sources. This situation has created a great deal of inconvenience to the students and has seriously affected their studies.

I urge you to consider this matter with great seriousness and take appropriate steps to ensure the availability of these books in the library. I am sure that you will agree with me that it is essential for the proper functioning of the University to have adequate resources available for the students.

Yours sincerely,

Financial Integration

Absorb ( Reduction or Avoidance of Debt )

Resources

In conclusion, it is important to recognize the need for a comprehensive approach to financial integration in order to absorb the costs of reduction or avoidance of debt. This requires a careful assessment of available resources and the development of strategies to optimize their utilization. By focusing on the integration of financial systems, we can ensure a sustainable and effective approach to managing debt and promoting economic growth.

I want to give as much time as possible for the discussion on the demands. But it is necessary to discuss all philosophy, etc., so that I can be comfortable. Within two days this has to be completed. There is also the Appropriation Bill.

Demands for Supplementary Grants

Dr. Amba, I am not in a position to make comments here. The report seems to be a mix of English and Arabic, with some text in Urdu. The content appears to be a mix of technical and possibly legal terms, with mentions of demands for supplementary grants. The document seems to be a letter or a draft letter, and the context suggests discussions about financial or administrative matters.

The text contains phrases that are not clear due to the mix of languages and the style of writing. It seems to be a formal document, possibly related to a government or legal setting. The full context is not entirely clear due to the language barriers and the complexity of the text.

Further analysis or translation would be required to provide a more detailed understanding of the document.
Mr M S Rajasingam: Mr Speaker: Sir, My hon. friend seems to be under some wrong impression that the present scheme of Shri Vinobha Bhave is taken up as a solution to the entire land problem. At the outset I want to make it clear that as far as I have understood him it is a clear question and as far as I have heard and read his speeches and statements I feel that he has not taken it as the only solution to the land problem. But when he had taken it up it was his view that the question of attachment which every individual is for towards the landed property would be reduced or brought to such a level that the man who is in possession of lands would give them on request or yield to dictates of law and part away with his lands thus helping the cause of the country. This is the view which Shri Vinobha Bhave has taken up this scheme and if the Congress or any sympathiser of this movement has been endeavou ring to help this cause I repeat it is only with this view.

Therefore I want to make it clear that my hon. Member should be under the wrong impression that Vinobha Bhave's movement is the only solution is that he has taken it up in himself to solve the entire land problem of Hyderabad State, by this measure. Sir, whether it would solve the entire land problem of the State or not one thing is clear that this movement is going to help our State in building up the administration and prove the way for an easier implementation of the tenure reforms which we are. going to have in the form of enactment. I feel when that Land comes into force it will be easier for us to implement it. We will by that time be in a position to have an entire change in the psychology of the people to put their hands easily and when we take those surplus lands they may not resort to an armed struggle to retain them. At least they may be in a position not to precipitate matters to such an extent that Government or other political parties might not be compelled to take arms to suppress their revolt.

Shri V D Deshpande: You mean the Zamunda armed struggle.

Shri M S Rajakunam: Yes Sir such a thing is possible. If the idea of attachment is so strong, I am confident that the land lords will also take to armed revolution which perhaps may be confronted by the State forces as a result of the consciousness of our political parties. But he must not forget that it is the strength of the attachment we have towards a thing that forces us on to revolt and fight to the last. If we have forgotten that we have forgotten our past history and experience. It has been felt and it has been remarked that this is revival of feudalism. The Opposition Parties have found such trends in this move. It is only because that certain members have scented in the words Yagni and Bhoomidhan tendencies of feudalism. I submit Sir that it all depends on which way we look at the problem. If it is merely feudal revivalism I can only say that Vinobaji would not have asked the lands for landless people or for people who do not own sufficient lands but would have asked lands of the poor to be given to the rich landed peasantry of our country. What Vinobaji has done is to set forth a regular process of acquisition of land by good will for the poor landless people with no monetary compensation. If my friends on the other side like to call it revival of feudalism I beg to differ with them and it may be because of their background and their history.

Then Sir the question of change of heart has been raised. I do believe that no party in this world can plainly say that they are not for a change of heart. It may be that they are not for a change of heart resulting in a particular type of approach. But every party believes be it the Communists the Socialists or the Congress believes in the change of heart. Sir a change of heart depends on the way in which situation are created the way in which an atmosphere is created wherein man has proved the change in himself. I know that this change of heart cannot be brought about in a day and it cannot be done only by a sermon or a speech.
Speaking from the closest quarters of Gandhi I can say that whenever Gandhi meant a change of heart he meant a change as a result of a particular act and in a particular atmosphere created by popular will or some other means of administration. This is not a question which can be lightly talked about. Every member of this House has not been trying to bring about a change of heart in his own way. I feel we are going against the instincts of human nature and expressing disbelief in the very fundamentals of human nature. As it is, we are people who are prone to give up and like that itself is the basis for the change of heart. So much of regimentation has stepped in to which we are not in a position to receive even the good of what others express. It is not my task but it is a change of heart that requires working. It is this very change of heart that would ultimately lead to the society so that in atmosphere could be created wherein surplus land could be safely taken away from the people. The concurring hills might help to wards this further. I request the hon Members on what ever side they may be, not to become a part of this by jealously talking away the meaning of the words change of heart. We are born with this instinct of changing others heart and we are destined to live and die for it.

There has been perhaps some sort of sentimental reaction to certain incidents of a few members whose personal experiences led them to oppose this measure. It is in a result of this that the donation of land has come in for certain criticism. One can see when it is the vested interests that are giving the land with alleged ulterior motive. It is not a question of doubting the intention of all the donors, but it is then and our personal experience that a few people have donated unfruitful and useless lands and that a few more have donated lands under dispute. It is not that Vinoba is not in the know of things but he expects that it least to this extent the attachment question to property is minimized. He felt convinced that it is only by doing this work that preparation could be made wherein the attachment a landlord has towards his land decreases. Hence it is the psychology of the sentiment behind his scheme that is important. That point must be understood by all.

A question was raised about class tendencies. Class tendencies is an academic subject I want to ask Su as it is not possible for a human being to be devoid of these class tendencies if he is placed in a proper atmosphere? Simply because Vinoba Bhave happened to be in close quarters with Babu Rajendra Prasad or Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, one cannot say that he is not in a position to wurd off class tendencies to whcichever class he may elong. Only because he has a personal liking and at the same time pass as regard for the victim cese they have rendered und so he is closer in char with them. Therefore it is argued that he is not in a position to have this class tendency. I am not in a position to understand this argument. I think a man being believe to were a person and lag. I do not believe that the feudal trend which has been working from a very long time has still got the 11 p over us. Even some of my friends on the other side are that when the pui scapel if new democracy has been accepted they have 1g end 1 pi nc pluck to what is known as I am not able to remember the exact word but if someone is a capitalist I might have lost the tendency of being a capitalist but yet remains a capitalist.

Shri V D Deshpande Progressive Capitalist?

Shri M S Rajalingam No Sir I fo got the exact word.

An hon Member Declassee capitalist.

Shri M S Rajalingam Yes Sir that is the correct word and I think the hon Member for helping me. If we could have a declassed middle class if we could have a declassed Zamindaries if we could have declassed capitalists is it not possible Sir that persons of the type of Vin Bhave to use above class tendencies? It is not a question of agreement but it is belief in human nature? In the absence of this belief the leader of the Opposition and the leader of the party in power would not have been at this present stage in their present capacities and they would not have also been respected by this House. Like this it is for the ideals that we respect them. To be more frank it is for their declassed nature. Speaking class tendencies in every problem is something that I can never understand in my life.

I therefore once again plead Sir, let us not misinterpret Vinobah Bhave by simply saying that at present he is giving a full solution to the land problem. He is only the creating the said necessary atmosphere which will ultimately help us in solving the land problem. At least let us now begin to think in the right direction and help the cause of Vinobah.

The way in which we have been scrutinising the Rs 5000 allotted for this purpose is not befitting of this House. The question is whether Rs 5000 should be given or not but whether it is going to give us a return equal to Rs 5000? If we are going to see that it is not a loss for us, I will be convinced that I should be in a position to give this Rs. 5,000 from the Government records, the Chief Minister will be in a position to place lists of this samite. I am convinced that this giving of Rs. 5,000 is not a loss for us, though it may not be a benefit at first. Let us try and see we get better results and hope for the best.

Shri E. S. R. Iyengar (Member, Public Health Department) said that the Chief Minister has been informed of the need for this amount. The health department has been working hard to improve public health and hygiene and has been successful in several areas. The amount would be used to purchase medical equipment and supplies, as well as to train health workers. The government has beenahlen for unconditional support and has been working closely with the health department to ensure the best possible outcome.

The Chief Minister assured the department that the funds would be available as soon as possible. The department was grateful for the support and pledged to use the funds effectively to improve public health and hygiene in the region.

Demands for Supplementary Grants

23rd July, 1952

Read the following paragraphs and mark them as appropriate.

1. The demand for supplementary grants is a common request by various organizations or individuals to meet additional financial needs. These grants are crucial for projects or initiatives that require additional funding beyond the initial budget.

2. However, it is important to ensure that the proposed projects or initiatives align with the organization's mission and goals. Moreover, a thorough evaluation process should be conducted to assess the feasibility and sustainability of the requested grants.

3. In some cases, supplementary grants may be allocated to support research, education, or community development projects. These grants can play a significant role in advancing society and promoting innovation.
