Section 1. The Andhra Pradesh General Sales Tax Act, 1957

In the year 1957, the Select Committee was constituted to inquire into the working of the General Sales Tax Act, 1937, and to make such recommendations as they thought fit. The committee was composed of members from various parts of the country, including representatives from the government of Andhra Pradesh.

The committee was of the opinion that the General Sales Tax Act, 1937, was not working satisfactorily in Andhra Pradesh. The committee recommended that the Act be replaced by a new Act that would be more conducive to the development of the region.

The new Act would provide for a uniform rate of sales tax that would be applicable throughout the State. The committee recommended that the rate be kept at a level that would not impose an undue burden on the taxpayers.

The new Act would also provide for the establishment of a committee to be known as the Sales Tax Committee. The committee would be responsible for the administration of the sales tax system and for the collection of the tax.

The committee recommended that the new Act be brought into force as soon as possible, and that it be given effect to in a manner that would be fair and equitable to all taxpayers.
