Fire accidents in Kothagudem Coal Mines.

The Minister for Labour and social welfare (Sri. D. Sanjivayya):—
Regulation of Labour and Safety in mines and oil fields is a Central Subject, and so the State Government has nothing to do.
According to press reports, fire broke out in one of the coal mines at Kothagudem on Sunday, the 23rd February 1958.

These reports stated that as it was Sunday, there were no workers in the pit and therefore, there was no loss of life or limbs. According to entry 55 to the list I in Schedule VII to the Constitution ‘Regulation of Labour and Safety in Mines and Oil Fields’ is a Central Subject. Mining accidents are covered by the Mines Act which has to be administered by the Chief Inspector of mines, Dhanbad, and Inspectors working under him make enquiries in case of Mining accidents. The State Government is concerned only with regard to payment of compensation under the Workmen’s Compensation Act in case of fatal or serious accidents. As there has been no loss of life or limbs, no report has been received by the State Government in this regard.

In view of the fact that cases of out-break of fire have to be investigated, which is a mining problem, enquiry has to be conducted in this case by the Chief Inspector of Mines, Dhanbad, and not by any Officer of the State Government.

"That the Report of the Committee of Privileges relating to Sri Vavilala Gopalakrishnayya's case, which was presented to the House on 22-11-1957 be adopted.

Mr. Speaker: Motion moved.
Mr. Speaker. It has nothing to do with the Committee Report. But, generally, when a mis-representation is coming from the clerk, I have a right to suggest to the Government to take some action against him. If the hon. Minister accepts it is all right. If he does not accept it, I do not bother.

Sri S. K. V. Krishnavatharam. Even if it is a mistake of the clerk, Government has to take the responsibility of the mistake, Sir.

Mr. Speaker. They have to see that such things are not repeated. Now the report has to be adopted by the House.
The question is:

'That the Report of the Committee of Privileges relating to Sri. Vavilala Gopalakrishnayya's case, which was presented to the House on 22-11-1957 be adopted.'

Services's point out, the Government of the new State of Andhra Pradesh has decided not to continue the existing health services in the newly formed State. The Budget Committee has pointed out that the services will be continued only if the new State is provided with adequate funds.

The Governor of the new State has taken over the powers of the Governor of the old State. The new Governor has been requested to take immediate steps to ensure that the services continue without any interruption.

The Budget Committee has also pointed out that the new State should be provided with adequate funds to meet the costs of the services. The Committee has recommended that the new State should be provided with a grant of Rs. 150/- per annum for the services.

The Governor has been requested to take immediate steps to ensure that the services continue without any interruption.

Osmania University Vice-Chancellor also stated that the University is fully prepared to carry on with its activities.

The Governor has been requested to take immediate steps to ensure that the University continues its activities without any interruption.
Dr. B. Gopala Reddy: The hon. Member is right.

Regional Councils would be interested in seeing these reforms. The regional councils would like to have the Local Boards abolished and the management of the schools transferred to the Regional Councils. This would give the Regional Councils a say in the management of the schools, which would be an advantage for the students. It is important to have a say in the management of the schools, as it is in the best interest of the students. The Regional Councils would like to have a say in the management of the schools, as it is in the best interest of the students.
Dr. B. Gopala Reddy: It has nothing to do with the Budget. Land reforms will not bring any money to the Government. Why should I mention it in the Budget speech.

Administration is a highly complex issue. I shall give the hon Member Dr. Chenna Reddy fifteen minutes because he is an ex-Minister and can give some valuable suggestions.

Budget—General Discussion

The Hon'ble Minister of Finance has laid on the table a Draft Budget for the year 1958-59. The Budget is essentially a consolidation of the General and the Capital Accounts. It is designed to provide a balanced revenue and capital expenditures with a comprehensive coverage of the state's financial position. The Budget aims to achieve a steady growth in the economy, focusing on social welfare, agriculture, industry, infrastructure, and education.

The long-term plans envisaged in the Budget are designed to lay the foundation for sustainable development. These plans focus on infrastructure, education, health, and social welfare. The medium-term plans are aimed at achieving immediate objectives, ensuring a smooth transition towards the long-term goals.

In the context of the current fiscal year, the Budget is targeted to maintain price stability, ensuring a steady supply of essential commodities. The government is committed to reducing poverty and increasing employment opportunities through targeted interventions in key sectors.

Surplus Budget

The Surplus Budget was proposed with a surplus of Rs. 33,000,000. This surplus was to be used for the following purposes:

1. To repay the outstanding loans of Rs. 22,000,000.
2. To create a loan fund of Rs. 10,000,000.
3. To provide a contingency fund of Rs. 1,000,000.

The surplus was to be achieved through a combination of increased taxes and reduced expenditures. The government planned to implement measures to increase tax revenues, such as the introduction of a new sales tax.

The surplus budget was welcomed by the members of the Assembly, who believed that it would lead to economic stability and growth.
289 Budget—General Discussion 1st March, 1958

In the recent report of the hospitals, the numbers of births, deaths, and other medical cases have been mentioned. The report further states that the mortality rate has increased. The medical staff has been working hard to improve the situation. Discussions were held on the need for more hospitals and medical facilities.

With regard to the Maternity Hospital, improvements have been suggested. The staff is working hard to improve the facilities. The Surplus Budget funds will be allocated to improve the hospital.

In upland areas, there is a need for better medical facilities. The government has allocated funds to improve the situation.

In conclusion, the medical staff is working hard to improve the situation, and the Surplus Budget funds will be used to improve the hospital facilities.

Budget—General Discussion

1st March, 1958

In the late 1950s, India faced significant economic challenges. The government, under the leadership of Jawaharlal Nehru, undertook a series of measures to stabilize the economy. One of the key issues was the surplus budget, a term that referred to the government's financial surplus over the Plan period. The government aimed to achieve a surplus budget to ensure fiscal stability and economic growth.

In 1957, the government set a target of achieving a surplus budget of Rs. 100 crores. This was a significant challenge, as it required careful administration and efficient resource allocation. The government implemented various measures to achieve this goal, including increased taxation and rationalization of public sector enterprises. Over the Plan period, the surplus budget was achieved, marking a significant milestone in India's economic history.

The surplus budget allowed the government to allocate more resources towards development projects and social welfare programs. This helped in reducing unemployment, improving infrastructure, and enhancing the overall standard of living in the country.

Considerate suggestions are welcome. (Lessons can be learned, perhaps, from recent experience, which would make for better planning and service. It is significant that, despite recent reforms, the Services are still beset by the same problems as before. The Law Department and the seniority integration law have been pedestrian examples of what can be done. If these Services have started to improve, it is largely due to the senior officers' efforts. Junior officers have also contributed, but the pace of change is still slow.)

Budget—General Discussion

The Budget Committee has discussed various topics, including "inflationary trends and their remedies," and has recommended actions to address these issues.

Mr. Mardz commented: "It is clear that inflationary trends have been exacerbated by several factors, such as increased production costs and rising wages. The Committee recommends the following measures to combat inflation:...

Mr. Dorevaj stressed the importance of controlling inflationary trends to ensure economic stability. He noted that:

- Increased production costs need to be closely monitored and controlled.
- Wage increases should be linked to productivity improvements.
- The government should implement measures to reduce interest rates and stimulate investment.

In conclusion, Mr. Dorevaj emphasized the need for a comprehensive approach to address inflationary pressures and promote long-term economic growth.

The discussion also touched on the following points:

- The impact of inflation on the middle class and its vulnerability to economic shocks.
- The role of fiscal policy in managing inflationary pressures.
- Strategies for enhancing economic resilience in the face of potential inflationary pressures.

The Committee acknowledged the importance of these issues and agreed to further explore potential solutions for addressing inflationary trends and promoting economic stability.
