Calling attention to matters of urgent public importance

28th June, 1960

General observations:

After the discussion of 180 topics, the government decided to focus on the following vital issues:

1. Economic and social development
2. Infrastructure and public services
3. Health and education
4. Agriculture and rural development
5. Environmental protection

In this regard, the government has taken several initiatives:

1. Implementing a new tax structure to encourage investment.
2. Setting up a national infrastructure fund
3. Establishing a new education policy
4. Launching a national health insurance scheme
5. Implementing a green energy program

In conclusion, the government is committed to addressing these issues to improve the quality of life for all citizens.

Sincerely,

Calling attention to matters of urgent public importance

Date: 28th June, 1960

Subject: Urgent Public Matters

This is to bring to your attention several matters of significant importance that require immediate action. These matters pertain to urgent public affairs and need your prompt consideration.

Firstly, the issue of water supply has become a critical concern. The current drought has affected many regions, and the situation is worsening. It is imperative that we implement urgent measures to ensure a reliable water supply for all inhabitants.

Secondly, the recent increase in the cost of living has placed a heavy burden on our citizens. This issue requires immediate attention to prevent social unrest and ensure the well-being of our population.

Thirdly, the need for infrastructure development in various regions remains urgent. Investments in roads, bridges, and other essential facilities are necessary to enhance connectivity and promote economic growth.

Finally, the issue of education funding is crucial. The current budget allocations do not suffice to meet the increasing demand for educational resources.

In conclusion, these matters require your immediate attention and action to ensure the welfare of our citizens and the continued development of our nation.

Yours sincerely,

Education must be related to our life. It must be related to our social activity. S. S. L. C. education is a mere waste.

Secondary education must qualify us for all activities in life and create some profession. But the motive behind it is to see that the educated unemployed should not kept idle.

Single teachers or village level workers are not creating anything for us. Let them be converted into some professional schools, avocational schools.

Basic schools are only a big fraud. I have seen a number of schools where the equipment given to the teacher was locked up. I asked the Inspector. He put on a very small face before me.

The basic equipment has been kept under lock and key for 1½ years. It must be pushed up. School Final or multi-purpose Schools.
Secondary education is a primary concern. Basic system is currently functional, but we need to improve it.

They are always conservative. When change is necessary, they fail to respond. In such cases, irrigation works are neglected, leading to disaster. In these situations, we need to take action. It is important to commit to improvement. We need to focus on 10-12 years of education to prepare for the future. We need to ensure the quality of education. Professional educational institutions need to improve. River valleys are a part of the constitution. There is a procedure for mitigating water levels and flood control.
We can minimise the trouble of these people who have to make sacrifices for us.
If they are confined only to that land which was previously irrigated, why waste public funds?

We will be augmenting the revenues of the State. We will be realising what we spent thereon. Agriculture is the main stay of our economy both for our people as well as for the State.

Motion on Address by the Governor

24th June, 1949

Mr. President, Members, and Fellow Citizens:

The occasion for this Address is perhaps one that is a little unusual, but it is also a significant one. It is unusual because it marks the end of nearly three years of service of the Government of this State. It is significant because it marks the beginning of a new era in the history of this State.

The year 1949 has been a year of transition. We have passed from the period of war to the period of peace. We have passed from the period of uncertainty to the period of stability. We have passed from the period of suffering to the period of prosperity.

It is true that there have been many problems to be faced. There have been many difficulties to be overcome. But we have faced them with courage and determination. We have overcome them with skill and resourcefulness.

We have worked hard to build a better State. We have worked hard to improve the welfare of our people. We have worked hard to strengthen the institutions of our Government.

We have achieved many things. We have achieved progress. We have achieved development. We have achieved hope.

But we also know that there is much more to be done. There is much more to be achieved. We must continue to strive for progress. We must continue to strive for development. We must continue to strive for hope.

We have much to be proud of. We have much to be thankful for. We have much to be hopeful of.

We are grateful to our people for their support and cooperation. We are grateful to our officers and officials for their dedication and service. We are grateful to our visitors for their interest and interest.

We look forward to the future with confidence. We look forward to the future with hope. We look forward to the future with determination.

Mr. President, Members, and Fellow Citizens, let us work together to build a better State, to improve the welfare of our people, and to strengthen the institutions of our Government.

Thank you.

In the Assembly, on the occasion of the centenary of the birth of Mr. B. R. Ambedkar, the Governor had the privilege of addressing the members. He began by expressing his deep sense of gratitude to the members for their warm welcome and the opportunity to address them. He stated that it was a great honor for him to be able to address the members on this auspicious occasion. He further stated that the members had played a vital role in the development of the country and that they had been instrumental in bringing about social and economic changes.

He then went on to speak about the importance of education and the role it played in the development of the country. He said that education was the key to unlocking the potential of the youth and that it was the responsibility of the government to provide quality education to all.

He also spoke about the challenges that the country faced and the need for unity and cooperation to overcome them. He urged the members to work together for the betterment of the country and to ensure that the rights of all citizens were protected.

He ended his address by expressing his hope that the members would continue to work for the welfare of the people and that they would work together to bring about positive changes in the country.

The Governor was received with a standing ovation as he concluded his address.

The question arises: whether it is a good idea to give priority to sports activities and to consider police recruitment as a secondary matter. Scarcity of police recruitment can be solved by selecting Sub Inspectors and Deputy Superintendents to select Constables and select sportsmen. Special armed police forces can be formed for sports activities, with preference to Sportsmen. Police telegraphs can be used to recruit police officers.

Sportsmen are selected for police recruitment. Police recruitment is also considered. Sub Inspectors and Deputy Superintendents are selected to select Constables and select sportsmen. Special armed police forces for sports activities are considered, with preference to Sportsmen. Police telegraphs can be used for police recruitment.

movement of power, recognition, and status. However, the established order and authority need to be respected. The process of growth and development should be inclusive and participatory. The government's policy and actions must align with the aspirations and needs of the people. The governance system should be transparent, accountable, and responsive to the citizens. The role of the Governor is crucial in this regard. The Governor's address to the Assembly is a platform to articulate the government's vision and priorities. It is an opportunity to encourage dialogue, foster understanding, and build consensus.

The Governor's role is multifaceted. It involves acting as a mediator between the government and the people, ensuring that the interests of all sections of society are represented. The Governor's address should reflect the spirit of unity and diversity, promoting harmony and cooperation. It is a testament to the democratic process and the values that underpin our nation. The Governor's address is a call to action, encouraging all to work towards a brighter future for our state.

Motion on Address by the Governor

The motion was made by the Governor, and seconded by the Chief Secretary. The Governor said that the government had been requested by the legislature to frame a new constitution for the province. He pointed out the difficulties that had arisen in the past and the necessity for a fresh scheme. The Chief Secretary concurred with the Governor and added that the matter had been discussed at length in the council and a decision had been reached. The motion was carried unanimously.

G.O. No. 1 was also presented, which provided for the establishment of a new department. The Chief Secretary explained the details of the G.O. and the benefits it was expected to bring. The motion was referred to the committee for further consideration.

On the motion for adjournment, the Governor said that the legislature had shown a great deal of interest in the proceedings, and he hoped that the committee would be able to report soon.

The session adjourned.

Motion on Address by the Governor

31st June, 1960

Administration is a fundamental aspect of government. Redtapeism is often associated with inefficiency. The Governor, in his capacity as the head of state, has emphasized the need for an expert administration to streamline the bureaucracy. The government has introduced measures to reduce redtapeism and improve efficiency. Be it the implementation of the experts' recommendations or the establishment of private sector participation, the government is committed to ensuring a corruption-free administration.

In the context of democratic decentralisation, the Governor has highlighted the importance of empowering local governments. This involves devolving powers and responsibilities to the lower levels of administration. The Governor has stressed the need for effective communication and coordination between different levels of government to achieve the goal of democratic decentralisation.

In conclusion, the Governor has underscored the significance of a strong, efficient, and corruption-free administration. The government's commitment to these principles is evident in its various initiatives and reforms. The Governor has encouraged all stakeholders to work together towards the realization of these goals.

Motion on Address by the Governor 28th June, 1960

The Governor's Address read by the Honble Speaker, M. D. Chowdary.

The Governor referred to the Social Service Department and said that the department had been established to provide various services including medical aid, scholarships, and representation in the Standing Committee.

He requested the House to accept the report of the Standing Committee on the Social Service Department and ordered that the report be printed and circulated.

The Honble Speaker then moved that the report be accepted and ordered printed and circulated.

The House passed the motion unanimously.
Motion on Address by the Governor

336  28th June, 1960

The Hon. Minister  has  stated  that  the  provision  for  the  maintenance  of independents  is  inadequate.  He  suggests  that  the  number  of  independent departments  be  increased.  The  Governor  expressed  the  hope  that  the Government  would  consider  the  matter  further.

The  motion  was  passed.

Last year  the  budget  was  approved  by  the  House.  This year  the  budget will be  considered  by  the  House.  The  Governor  expressed  the  hope  that the  budget  would  be  approved  by  the  House.
