Yes, Sir. The outlay for the Annual Plan for 1963-64 was originally fixed at Rs. 55.27 crores, of which Rs. 1.31 crores was for Agricultural Production and Rs. 4.17 crores for Minor Irrigation. The Government of India later allotted an additional amount of Rs. 40.0 lakhs primarily for undertaking Modified Package Programme in ten districts and Rs. 4.83 crores for additional Minor Irrigation Programmes.

Ram Subag Singh working group constituted by the Government of India has recently gone into the question of co-ordination of local and district levels in considerable detail keeping in view the great emphasis laid on agricultural production. The Committee generally supports the recommendations of the Ram Subag Singh working group to achieve better co-ordination and suggests that action may be taken accordingly.

Pilot Project Scheme in Devarkonda Taluk

1184—

* 2935 Q.—Sri P. Parva'a Reddy (Peddapovora): Will the hon. Minister for Planning and Panchayati Raj be pleased to state:
(a) the reason why the permanent famine relief (Pilot Project scheme) has been implemented in Devarkonda taluk, Nalgonda district, inspite of the fact that the hon. Minister had stated on the floor of the House during the meetings of the last budget session that the said scheme would be implemented there;

(b) whether it will be implemented at least during 1963-64; and

(c) whether the Central Government have sanctioned any funds for the implementation of the same?

Dr. M. Chenna Reddy:

(a), (b) and (c)

The Government of India who were requested to sanction additional assistance for implementing the pilot Plan have declined to sanction any financial assistance outside the State's Plan. In view of this, the Pilot Plan which was formulated could not be implemented for want of funds. As provision of irrigation facilities is a major factor contributing to the permanent development of the drought affected areas, special allotment of funds for the sinking of irrigation wells is being made to all drought affected areas. During 1962-63 an allotment of Rs. 1.37 lakhs was made to Devarkonda taluk. The provision during 1963-64 is Rs. 1.60 lakhs.

(Sri K. S. Bawa).
After general discussion on the problem the following decisions were taken:

1. The Gotta reservoir project will be so designed and worked that the water level in Orissa will not exceed 157 R. L. at any time.

2. A foreshore bund will be provided along the border of the reservoir towards Orissa as protection against wave action.

3. Submersion will be limited to 350 acres at the most. Due provision will be made in the project for re-settlement and re-habilitation of the persons who lose land.

4. Final designs should be shown to the Orissa Government by the Andhra Pradesh Government but work on the Gotta scheme should go on immediately subject to the above three conditions.

5. The investigation of the Gangudu (Sunanoi) project and bridge cum regulator at Gadiakola near Gunupur is to be undertaken jointly by the Orissa and Andhra Governments and the cost of investigation will be shared 50:50. The Andhra Government have agreed to depute sufficient staff for investigation of the project within a month and the investigation will be carried out by the Orissa Government. The staff deputed will be given 25% deputation allowance and other allowances including agency allowance admissible under Andhra Government rules.

NOTE OF DISCUSSION

HELD AT MACHKUND ON 14TH JUNE 1960 AT 3 P. M.

PRESENT:

Chief Minister, Andhra
Minister P. W. D., Andhra;
Secretary, P. W. D. Andhra;
Sri Vankatakrisna Iyer, Chief Engineer (Irrigation) A. P.

Chief Minister, Orissa Minister, Irrigation, Orrissa, Chief Secretary Orissa, Divisional Commissioner, Southern Diviion, Orrisa, Additional Chief Engineer, Irrigation, Orrisa.
The position with regard to the Vamsadhara project was explained. Orissa had previously agreed to the construction of a dam at Gotta. This would inundate about 350 acres of land in Orissa and 25,000 acres in Andhra. Investigations were made whether any project can be developed in the upper reaches of the river which would not inundate valuable areas. It was suggested by Andhra Pradesh at the instance of C. W. P. C., that a dam was feasible at Gudari on the Vamsadhara. Such a reservoir would inundate a comparatively smaller area which is mostly forest land and may provide a regular flow of water in the river to stabilise at Gotta. It was explained on behalf of Orissa that they have already prepared projects in the upper reaches of Vamsadhara above Gudari and have started executing some of them. If the utilisation of these projects is allowed for, it appears certain there will not be adequate water available for a reservoir at Gudari. It may not, therefore, be worthwhile having a reservoir at this place on account of the irrigation schemes of Orissa Government.

The original agreement with regard to Gotta would therefore be adhered to. It was also mentioned that there may be accumulation of water outside on account of the bunds; but the Andhra Pradesh representatives indicated there will be provision for suitable outfall sluices to permit of drainage into the reservoir. Claims and estimates of the scheme as may be finalised will be sent to the Government of Orissa for information.

There are certain works in Orissa which are of benefit both to Orissa and to Andhra Pradesh. They include flood embankments on the Vamsadhara, head works on the water courses, river channels, irrigation sub-division. It was agreed that repairs to these works should be done by the Government of the place where the source is situated and repairs are to be taken up.

It was accepted in principle that both Orissa and Andhra Pradesh share the cost of annual and special repairs in proportion to the ayacut concerned in the case of the irrigation sources like tanks case of embankment.

It was mentioned that repairs to the Vamsadhara embankment at Kodumais urgent and should be taken up immed-

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONFERENCE BETWEEN THE ADDITIONAL CHIEF ENGINEER, (IRRIGATION), ORISSA STATE, IRRIGATION ADVISER & CONSULTING ENGINEER & ADDITIONAL SECRETARY, P. W. D. ANDHRA PRADESH AND CHIEF ENGINEER (GENERAL & IRRIGATION) ANDHRA PRADESH HELD ON 4TH SEPTEMBER, 1964 IN THE CHAMBERS OF IRRIGATION ADVISER & CONSULTING ENGINEER & ADDITIONAL SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT, P. W. D. ANDHRA PRADESH, HYDERABAD.

PRESENT:

2. Sri A. R. Venkataraman, I. S. E., Chief Engineer (General & Irrigation) A. P.

3. Sri M. O. Pani,
Additional Chief Engineer (Irrigation)

The following are also present:

1. Sri S. C. Tripathi,
Superintending Engineer, P. W. D.
Orissa State.

2. Sri H. A. Kabir khan, B. E.,
Director (Inter State & Designs) Andhra Pradesh.

As regards Neeradi barrage, the design of the anicut and location of the top level of the flood bank proposed and arrangements to be made for providing drainage of the area on the off side of the flood bank in Orrissa State were examined in detail with reference to the plans. The expected maximum flood discharge and the maximum flood level upstream and downstream of the anicut were also examined.

It was agreed that the design proposed by the Andhra Pradesh Engineers for the flood bank and agreements proposed by the Andhra Pradesh for the drainage sluice were generally acceptable.

The Orissa Engineers desired that they may be given the finally approved design of the out fall sluice and this may cater for a run off of $1$" per hour in the catchment under reference. The flood bank should have 6' of free board above M. W. L. with two feet pitching above M. W. L in the river side.

The Orissa Engineers also agreed that a sluice may be provided on the left flood bank at a Place to be indicated by them and of the size to be indicated by them for any future irrigation to be proposed in their territory and the cost of the sluice would be borne by them. If and when, in future irrigation is decided in Orissa State the cost of the proposed anicut will be borne on ayacut basis.

The Neeradi irrigation proposes to provide on the Andhra side for first crop only. It was agreed that the existing irrigation interests both under Orissa and Andhra Pradesh area in the Vamsadhara river basin will be a first charge on the waters. It was also agreed that the water requirement of the Neeradi project will be met out of what was agreed to under Gotta reservoir scheme previously. Orissa Engineers has no objection to the Neeradi Project subject to the above.

The Andhra Engineers stated that there is no proposal for additional irrigation beyond what is now proposed for under the Neeradi barrage and Gotta reservoir. The Andhra Engineers therefore had no objection to the utilisation by Orissa State of the balance of waters under Vamsadhara subject to the protection of the existing irrigation interest in Andhra area which is roughly estimated at 10 Tmc ft. The Orissa Engineers requested Andhra Engineers to send the working tables for the Neeradi Barrage and Gotta reservoir so that they may examine them and give their requirements for abstraction of water from Vamsadhara river and thereafter the two Chief Engineer will meet and provide the necessary basis for final allocation of waters in Vamsadhara basin.

Sd/- L. Venkatakrishnan, 4-9-62.
Sd. M. C. Pani, 4-9-62 Sd/- A. R. Venkataraman, 4-9-62.

From the date available it has been estimated that the yield of Vamsadhara River at Gotta Reservoir is 115.00 RMC. The requirements of Andhra Pradesh for Gotta Irrigation project and Neradi anicut is 47.4 TMC. The total quantity of water for the existing irrigation in Andhra Pradesh is about 7 TMC. So the total requirements of water of Andhra Pradesh for the existing irrigation and Projects which are now being taken up is 54.5 TMC. The requirements of water for the projects in Orissa State has been roughly estimated to be 55 TMC.

Thus the yield of Vamsadhara Basin is just sufficient to meet the requirements of both the States. The water of Vamsadhara Basin may consequently be utilised by both Andhra Pradesh and Orissa States on a fifty-fifty basis.

It is agreed that the Projects in Andhra Pradesh can be taken up immediately on this basis.

sad loss of a great and good statesman, a keen and service-orientated public man, and a man of vast knowledge of Hinduism.

Obituary–Condolence Resolution:

re: the demise of Sri Raj Venkata Kumar Mahipathi Surya Rao Bahadur, Maharajah of Pithapuram and former Member of the Madras Legislative Assembly.

Sri P. V. G. Raju: Sir, I would like to say a few words in sympathy to the bereaved family of the great Maharaja Saheb of Pithapuram. The Maharaja was one of the seniormost living aristocrats in the State of Andhra Pradesh and I would like to say with some measure of pride that so far as his life and his career is concerned, every one can feel about the way in which he handled his life. It is very easy Sir, these days to sermonise and also to say that he belonged to a community or class which did not serve the cause of the people either sincerely or adequately. The age has changed Sir, and therefore it is in the fashion to say things to justify our actions to-day. But I would like to point out Sir, that men have to be judged as individuals as well as persons belonging to a certain caste or community or tribe. As an individual, I do not think, there are few people alive to-day in Andhra Pradesh who can be compared to the Maharaja saheb of Pithapuram. He was a great scholar and he was a great gentleman. He was a man who believed in the highest level of morality and understanding of existence. To-day it is easy to think that all the reforms that have been brought about, the revolution that has taken place in our country, has grown spontaneously; but friends forget that all the achievements are due to the effort and work of those who lived previously and who have striven previously. Hindu society could not have been emancipated, but for the efforts by men like Maharaja of Pithapuram. For instance he was a follower of Brahmu Samaj at a time when Andhra Pradesh was very backward and caste-ridden and very orthodox in its religious attitude, the Maharaja of Pithapuram started the Brahmam Samaj. He was responsible to encourage the services of Shri

Veeresalingam Pantulu and Raghupathi Venkataraman Naidu and other great people in Andhra Pradesh. But when persons like the Maharaja of Pithapuram started the Brahmo samaj he was faced with opposition from all the political quarters who were in those days very powerful and when Britishers were in power and when the Zamindari system was very powerful. The families of Bobbili and Venkatagiri were also opposed to his liberal attitude.
I take a special pride in the fact that it was the Maharani of Rewa, one of my great grand aunts who supported him in his adoption to the family of Pithapuram and helped him in taking over his Estate. Therefore, all these things should be remembered and to-day it is easy to discredit the system. I agree that the Zamindari system had a strangle-hold over the means of production. But one should not forget that the past strangle-hold over the means of production may easily alter. There may be new means of production. Therefore one should not judge merely by the strangle-hold over the society, how the group develops, the means of production and the political power and so on. Therefore, judge objectively, one would not be wrong in asserting that the Maharaja was a very great man and ultimately it is a sad thing that during the last five or six years he did not have even money for himself to have food daily. He did not have food and I think a society fails which cannot provide food for a man during the last five or six years of his life whatever may be the sins of his class or whatever the Zamindari system might have done. If the society has failed to recognise his services and cannot even provide him food, then there is something wrong whatever the progress may be and I take this opportunity to point out that even if we are progressing very fast in the world, at the same time, we are losing some of our essential and basic values which we should remember. Now is not the time to say these things. But the man is no longer alive and therefore the problem does not arise. But at a certain stage it was difficult for many of us to see his hardships during the last five or six years of his life. I hope Sir that we will be able to and the society in Andhra Pradesh will be able to recognise this man's great work and complete the work that he has undertaken as Mr. Sundarayya and Sri Tenneti Viswanatham have pointed out.

Let us all undertake and complete the work that he has undertaken and let his name be remembered for many many years to come.

The year 1964–65 has been a challenging one. The economy faced difficulties throughout the year. Despite this, the government managed to achieve its financial targets. The budget was formulated with the aim of supporting various sectors of the economy.

The budget aimed to allocate funds for the development of industrial cooperatives. Individual loans to industrial cooperatives were increased to provide them with the necessary funds to carry out their operations.

The financial targets were set to support physical targets. The government aimed to increase foreign exchange reserves to support the country's economy. An Ad hoc Leather Board was constituted to address specific issues related to the leather industry.

Paperwork was also prioritized to ensure efficient execution of the budget. The government worked hard to execute the budget effectively.

In conclusion, the budget of 1964–65 was a comprehensive plan that aimed to support various sectors of the economy. The government's efforts were directed towards achieving the financial targets set for the year.
