Condolence Motion:

re: Demise of Dr. B. Ramakrishna Rao

Sir,

It is with profound sorrow that I read of the untimely death of Dr. B. Ramakrishna Rao, a great personality in the literary and cultural life of our country. Dr. Rao was one of the pioneer figures who contributed significantly to the development of Telugu literature and culture.

Dr. Rao was born on 15th September 1967, and passed away on 2nd October 1967. He was a versatile scholar who had a profound understanding of Telugu literature and culture. His contributions to the field of Telugu literature were immense, and he was a respected figure in the literary circles.

Dr. Rao was a prolific writer and had written several works in Telugu. He was also known for his outstanding contributions to the field of Telugu education. His works have been widely acclaimed and have been translated into several languages.

Dr. Rao's death is a great loss to the literary and cultural world. His contributions will continue to inspire future generations. The nation has lost a great personality, and we can only express our deepest condolences to his family and friends.

Yours sincerely,

re: Demise of Dr. B. Ramakrishna Rao

Sri V. K. Naik (Gagan mahal):—Mr. Speaker, Sir, I fully associate myself with the Condolence Resolution moved by the Chief Minister. Two weeks back when we had met at Mr. Ramakrishna Rao's house in connection with a committee for collection of funds for a good cause, I never felt that such a bad news would come upon us so quickly within a short period of two weeks: Mr. Ramakrishna Rao's association with Hyderabad could be remembered, not in one field, but in various fields. If at all we have to summarise, I could summarise in one remark “We owe our political, social and educational existence or in any other field to him and him alone.” He was a good fighter—a fighter against the feudalistic tendencies—a fighter who was in the rank and file of various good persons, a fighter who fought against the Nizam and the Nizam's feudalistic dynasty and such a good man we have lost today! He is really a great soldier. Many persons know him very well. At least in those days when communalism was rampant in Hyderabad, when on every side there was a rule of the State, and not a rule of the people, we know what a great task it was for all those great persons like Mr. Kasinath Rao Vaidya, Mr B. Ramakrishna Rao and others who had to fight to an inch to see that people's democracy prevailed in the State, as it prevailed in other parts of Bharat. So, a great soul, a patriot, a talented person who has done much for the country, we have lost today and he has left a good heritage for us and it is for us now to keep up its torch burning for all time to come by remembering him and his good deeds.
I associate myself fully with the sentiments expressed by the Chief Minister and pray that peace be bestowed on his soul and courage be given to his relatives.
