Selection of Speaker.

20th March, 197.

Mr. Chairperson and Members.

Mr. Speaker, it is with profound respect that I rise today to address this esteemed gathering. The occasion is significant, and I believe it is our duty to honor it with wisdom and sincerity.

As we gather here today, let us reflect on the importance of our role as leaders. Each of us has a unique perspective and a unique voice, and it is through this diversity that we can truly serve the needs of our community.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to our esteemed colleagues for their continued support and commitment. Together, we have achieved remarkable success, and it is through our collective efforts that we will continue to shape our future.

As we move forward, let us remember that our decisions have a profound impact on the lives of those around us. It is our responsibility to make informed and ethical choices, to lead with integrity, and to always seek the greater good.

I am honored to be recognized as the selection of the Speaker. I promise to do my best to fulfill my duty to this august body. Thank you.

Election of Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, it is with a sense of satisfaction and pride that I address the House today. (applause) The Clerk has kindly prepared a list of names for our consideration. (applause) I trust that the proceedings will be carried out in a spirit of harmony and fair play. (applause)

Mr. Speaker, I would like to assure the House that I will do my best to serve the interests of all members and the country at large. (applause)

I therefore ask the House to elect me as the next Speaker of this esteemed body. (applause)

Thank you.
Election of Speaker.

20th March, 1967 21

Mr. Speaker, Sir, On behalf of the Jan Sangh, I extend my cordial and sincere congratulations to you. You have been elected unanimously to the Speaker's office which is the highest post. Your seat is having the emblem of Dharma Chaitya above it and this itself indicates as to what is expected of the Speaker and what the incarnation of the Speaker ought to be. You have had experience of this high office for the past two years and you have exhibited Dharma. I hope you will extend the same exhibition of Dharma in future also.

"Dharma" means and includes the incarnation of Godliness in the Speakership itself. It means, equity, justice and good conscience. So long as these three attributes are exhibited in the discharge of the duties of the office of Speaker, it automatically follows that it is an incarnation of Godliness and Godhead. Therefore, my respectful and sincere appeal to you, Sir, is that you may follow these three precepts, so that you would be following "Dharma". So far as Jan Sangh is concerned, it is based on the tenet of "Dharma", and "Dharma" alone is the thing that is wanted now-a-days in the Country.

Sri A. Madhava Rao (Nellore): Mr. Speaker, Sir, you have been elected unanimously to the Speaker's office which is the highest post. Your seat is having the emblem of Dharma Chaitya above it and this itself indicates as to what is expected of the Speaker and what the incarnation of the Speaker ought to be. You have had experience of this high office for the past two years and you have exhibited Dharma. I hope you will extend the same exhibition of Dharma in future also.

"Dharma" means and includes the incarnation of Godliness in the Speakership itself. It means, equity, justice and good conscience. So long as these three attributes are exhibited in the discharge of the duties of the office of Speaker, it automatically follows that it is an incarnation of Godliness and Godhead. Therefore, my respectful and sincere appeal to you, Sir, is that you may follow these three precepts, so that you would be following "Dharma". So far as Jan Sangh is concerned, it is based on the tenet of "Dharma", and "Dharma" alone is the thing that is wanted now-a-days in the Country.
I need not state these things to you, Sir, for you have been the Speaker of this House for the past five years. Of course, I had no opportunity of being present in the House previously, but I had the opportunity of knowing, through the papers, how you conducted the proceedings of the House as Speaker. You exhibited great talent in upholding the dignity of the House and parliamentary traditions which we borrowed from England. Every member should have that consciousness of the Parliamentary system and tradition which should be followed according to the British Parliamentary practice. So long as it has not been followed, automatically it follows that there is a break-down of parliamentary system. Parliamentary system means that every member and every constituent part of the Assembly should always feel conscious of parliamentary tradition and parliamentary outlook and consciousness of parliamentary nature. Then only there will be success for democracy. In fact, that is what is wanted also.

So far as I am concerned, it is the ruling party. It may have an advantageous position. But, as Opposition members, we expect at your dexterous hand, full opportunity to express ourselves freely in the House. You, as a Lawyer, know what law is and what difficulties there are for the Opposition parties. In these circumstances, we require you to extend your hand in our favour, so that we may be in a position to express ourselves freely, as a result of our natural feelings, and gain confidence that justice is being meted out to us. If this is done, naturally parliamentary democracy will have its effect.

Once again I extend my sincere congratulations to you, Sir. I assure you that we shall extend our full co-operation in the deliberations of the House, and we shall also extend our co-operation to the Government so long as it is in accordance with the principles of democracy, natural justice, equity and good conscience and so long as it is for the good of the public.

Sir, Jagannath Narasimha (Narayarana) — On behalf of myself and also on behalf of the Opposition party, I deem it a privilege to extend my heart-felt congratulations on your unanimous election to the high office of the Speaker of the Assembly. The Hon. Chief Minister and other members of the House have expressed sentiments and feelings appropriate to the occasion and I fully associate myself with all those sentiments and feelings.

Being an established lawyer with considerable experience and ability, you hold this office previously with high dignity, sincerity and impartiality, and your unanimous re-election, I think, is a tribute to all those qualities.

You are the guardian of all rights and privileges in this House. I submit, Sir, so many young members have made entry into this Assembly. Out of excitement or due to any other cause, these young members may use unparliamentary language in the Assembly. I request that you may诫 all the young members who have entered this Assembly as your own children and you have to guide and advise them properly so that they may have an opportunity to express their views-polls.
Election of Speaker.

It may not be out of place to say that there were several occasions previously when you used to allot 15 minutes to the speakers on the first day, ten minutes to those who spoke on the second day, and lastly when it came to the third day or the fourth day, you reduced the time to five minutes which might not even be sufficient for members to rise and speak. I hope you will give equal opportunity to all those members who want to ventilate their grievances and express their feelings in the House.

Lastly, Sir, as the proverb goes, the Judge should not only be above suspicion, but it should also appear that he is above suspicion. So also, Sir, the Speaker is not only to be above party politics, but it should also appear that he is above politics.

Thank you.

In 1933, Ho Chi Minh, in his speech to the delegates of the Vietnamese Independence Movement, said:

"I stand here today to address you on behalf of myself and the Vietnamese people. For too long, we have been oppressed and exploited by foreign powers. We have been forced to endure the suffering of war, poverty, and hunger. We have been forced to live in a state of fear and servitude. But today, I am here to tell you that we are no longer willing to accept this state of affairs. We are ready to fight for our freedom and independence. We are ready to fight for our dignity and our humanity."

Mr. Ho Chi Minh's speech was a call to action for the Vietnamese people to rise up against their oppressors and fight for their rights. His words inspired many to join the movement for Vietnamese independence and freedom.

Election of Bishop.
Election of Speaker.

Mr. Speaker (honourable Sir)—Mr. Speaker, when the occasion for election of the Speaker comes, it is a matter of great importance to the House and the country at large. The Speaker is the symbol of the dignity of the House and the authority of the legislature. It is, therefore, essential that the Speaker should be a man of the highest integrity and character. He should be a man who is respected by all, and who commands the confidence of the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure that all of us are aware of the great responsibility that rests on the shoulders of the Speaker. It is his duty to see that the proceedings of the House are conducted in a fair and impartial manner. He should be a man who is impartial and unbiased, and who is capable of making decisions that are in the best interests of the country.

Mr. Speaker, I am confident that you will discharge your duties with great diligence and fairness. Your experience and wisdom will undoubtedly guide you in making the right decisions.

Mr. Speaker, I wish you all the best of luck in your new role. We are all looking forward to your leadership in the House.

Election of Speaker.

In the meeting of 18th March, 1917, it was decided to elect a Speaker for the following session. The meeting was called to order by Mr. S. K. Das, who was unanimously chosen as the first Speaker of the House.

It was decided that the Speaker must be a member of the House and that he should be elected by the members themselves. The election was held on the 19th March, 1917, and Mr. S. K. Das was again elected as the Speaker for the following session.

The Speaker is responsible for maintaining order and conducting the business of the House. He also has the power to interpret the rules of the House and to decide disputes that may arise during the proceedings.

At the end of the session, the Speaker is required to submit a report to the Governor-General, setting out the proceedings of the House during the session.

Elections of Speaker.

20th March, 1947.

On the formation of the Andhra Pradesh, the question of the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly had been deferred. There were two main reasons for it. Firstly, the Provisional Government was not prepared to appoint a Speaker, as the constitution of the Assembly would not be finalised until such time as the elections for the Legislative Assembly were held. Secondly, the Provisional Government was not sure of the goodwill of the members of the Legislative Assembly and the Speaker, who would be appointed to the Legislative Assembly. Consequently, the Provisional Government decided to defer the appointment of the Speaker.

Mr. Speaker:—I heartily congratulate you for having been elected unanimously as Speaker of this House. It is a great honor to be elected to such a high position. I congratulate all the members of the Legislative Assembly for electing you as the Speaker.

Mr. Speaker:—I also congratulate you for your election. I am sure that you will do your best to maintain the prestige of the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. Speaker:—I thank you Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker:—Mr. Speaker is not addressed as your honor. There is no honor in addressing as your honor.

Election of Speaker. 20th March, 1967.

Sir K. V. Venkappa Reddi (Ezkri):—Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to offer my congratulations for your unanimous election as Speaker of this august House. My association with you for more than two decades is unique and unparalleled—your presidency of the District Board and legislature of the Composite Mysore, Anakapu and Andhra Pradeshi States—has proved the capacity and strength of your leadership. Your legal acumen, imperial and cosmopolitan outlook, and sense of justice deserve this high office. Your knowledge, Sir, you had a very rich experience and your brilliant record of service is most commendable. I am sure that, with the co-operation of this august House and with the co-operation with the leadership of Mr. Baburam Reddy who has a benevolent outlook, you would discharge your duties. You must remember, Sir, that position is exalted and good name and reputation go in perpetuity. I am sure God will bless you with good health and you would discharge the duties to the best of your ability. Thank You.

S. B. Mudaliar:—On the floor we have representatives from the Mysore State and the Madras Presidency and the common interests of the two States.

J. S. Aiyangar (Ezkri):—The two States are the same and with the same interests.

K. V. Venkappa Reddi (Ezkri):—On the floor we have representatives from the Mysore State and the Madras Presidency and the common interests of the two States.
